

Biography

Daniel Weintraub, MD

Professor of Psychiatry

University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine

Parkinson's Disease and Mental Illness, Research, Education and
Clinical Centers (PADRECC and MIRECC)

Philadelphia VA Medical Center

Philadelphia, PA

Dr. Weintraub is Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine and Psychiatrist at the Parkinson's Disease Research, Education and Clinical Center (PADRECC) at the Philadelphia Veterans Affairs (VA) Medical Center. As a board-certified geriatric psychiatrist, he conducts clinical research in the psychiatric and cognitive complications of Parkinson's disease. He serves on multiple task forces and working groups of the International Parkinson and Movement Disorder Society (IPMDS) and chairs the Cognitive-Behavioral Workgroup of the Fox Foundation-funded Parkinson's Progression Markers Initiative. He is an Advisor to the Critical Path for Parkinson's Consortium (CPP) and is Associate Editor of Movement Disorders Journal.